

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER AUGUST 20, 1928, AT THE POSTOFFICE
AT TRYON, N. C. UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, MARCH 3, 1879

THE TRYON DAILY BULLETIN

The World's Smallest DAILY Newspaper.

Seth M. Vining, Editor

Vol. 24—No. 240 TRYON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, AUG. 22, 1951

Weather Tuesday: High 95, low 62, Rel. Hum. 68 . . . Friday will be a big day in Tryon with the opening of the new Cassels 5&10c Store, according to a double page advertisement in today's Bulletin. There will be hundreds of free gifts to draw folks from all over this section. Ballenger's is also putting on a half-price sale. Good time for other stores to put on sales and give more inducements for the thousands of people expected in town. School clothes are to be bought, and school supplies, too. Time to get ready for many things. The grocery stores will advertise their specials Thursday and they will bring many folks to the markets . . . The Tryon Chamber of Commerce is helping to pay the expenses of Graves Taylor's radio broadcasts from Detroit and Cleveland, and people who have heard them up there write that they are good and they have induced many visitors to come to this section. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Dunn of Plymouth, Mich., who have been taking The Bulletin for a number of years to keep up with Tryon with an eye to a permanent home, have been spending a few days at Buckingham Inn. They think The Bulletin should be sent to a lot of people all over the nation instead of

Continued on Back Page.

WELFARE AT KIWANIS

Miss Jeannette MacGregor, Supt. Polk County Welfare Department, spoke to the Kiwanis Club Tuesday at Oak Hall hotel on the welfare program in Polk County. Miss MacGregor said that 365 families were receiving assistance in Polk County at the present time. The speaker told of new legislation that affected the welfare program. For the first time, aid is available to the totally and permanently disabled who haven't fitted into any of the categories that would enable them to receive assistance. Another law that has received quite a bit of attention is the lien law, which places a lien on the estate of anyone receiving old age assistance after October 1st, which must be paid before any property goes to the heirs. Miss MacGregor said that the department often had to appeal for private funds to help out because the county didn't have enough money to do all that was needed to be done.

HUBER—PARKER

The following announcement has been received by Tryon friends:

"Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Eddy Parker, junior, have the honour of announcing the marriage of their daughter, Caroline Stone, to Mr. Michael Wright Huber, on Saturday, July the twenty-eighth, nineteen hundred and fifty-one, St. Aidan's Chapel, South Dartmouth, Massachusetts."

The bride is a granddaughter of the late J. H. Perkins who owned the Cotton Patch in the Hunting Country and she was an annual visitor here every spring where she took part in the Riding & Hunt Club activities.