Vol. 24—No. 241 TRYON, N. C.,

THURSDAY, AUG. 23, 1951

Weather Wednesday: High 92, low 68, Rel. Hum. 65 . . . U. N.-Korean peace talkers talking rough. Both sides getting tough. One or the other will soon get enough . . . Mrs. Fred McKaig has received word that her husband will soon be home for a visit from the USS Princeton in the Pacific. . . . B. Jason Booker served on the Polk County Grand Jury this week and was the first Negro in Polk County to serve on the Grand Jury. . . . "Dark Corner is lit up now", said a prominent citizen of that community after the Duke Power Co., put in electric lines to a number of homes there. Another said he had heard of people going to Dark Corner to get "lit up" but didn't know they had lit it too. Just where Dark Corner begins and ends has always been a matter of opinion as it covers an interesting and attractive part of two states which has produced many outstanding citizens. The Piedmont Boy Scout camp at the head of Lake Lanier has had electricity and city water for some time. A number of citizens seeking sites of scenic beauty have their eyes on that territory. The lack of good roads and modern conveniences have kept them away.

The Brintnall roses at Seven Hearths are in bloom again and visitors are invited to see them.
