THE TRYON DAILY BULLETIN

The World's Smallest DAILY Newspaper.

Seth M. Vining, Editor

Vol. 24—No. 259 TRYON, N. C.. TUESDAY, SEPT. 18TH, 1951

Weather Monday: High 73, low 56, Rel. Hum. 75 . . . Several thousand soldiers arrived over the week-end in Seattle from Korea headed for home. Among those listed in the Charlotte Observer today was Cpl. Jack D. Vickers of Tryon Route One . . . The world needs volunteers for many worthy causes, people with the zim and zip to do things on their own without having to be solicited. The Crusade For Freedom gives everyone an opportunity to volunteer a donation and help fight Russian lies with truth. How do you stand on this matter? Are we going to wait and pay in blood, sweat and tears? If you believe in doing something now that may prevent a world war send your donation to John G. Landrum Jr., or to The Bulletin office. We must not allow ourselves to get doped with inertia from indifference. It is a sad state to get in. It is a period that makes us ripe for dictators. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" is an old saying that applies to this situation. Will you tell the world which side you are on? Enroll now for the Crusade For Freedom. You are your own judge as to the amount you are to give . . . Mrs. Ethel Gardner Sturgis has about completed the remodeling of Mill Farm Inn
