TUESDAY, SEPT. 25TH, 1951

Weather Monday: High 81, low 60, Rel. Hum. 60 . . . Congratulations will be going to Thousand Pines Inn Monday on its 25th anniversary. An advertisement in today's Bulletin invites the public to an open house affair next Monday afternoon . . . Mrs. Julia Lake Kellersberger will speak to the women of the community this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Congregational Church House, and again tonight at 8 o'clock to the public in general, men, women and children . . . Three big events are already scheduled for Friday night in Tryon including the Men's Garden Club meeting at 6:30 at Oak Hall; the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at 8 at Oak Hall and the Fellowship meeting and supper at the Congregational Church House at 7 o'clock when Dr. and Mrs. Garbo will put on a program about places "You Will Want to Visit When Your Ship Comes In" . . . This is National Dog Week.

CATTLE FARM $20 ACRE

The 326 acre cattle farm advertised in Monday's Bulletin for Columbus Realty Co., should have had the price of $20 per acre added to it, according to Ernest Gibbs of Columbus.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETS FRIDAY AT 8

The Tryon Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual meeting for reports and election of three directors Friday night at 8 at Oak Hall hotel.

At a meeting of the directors on Monday night President Matt O'Shields stated that reports from the various committees would show an interesting year's work.

University of N. C. Library Wants Another History

John G. Landrum Jr., treasurer of the Polk County Historical Commission has received a second order from the University of North Carolina for an additional copy of the Polk County History by Sadie Patton.

One by one these histories are slipping out of Polk County and home folk and new owners will be trying to purchase copies that will not be available according to members of the commission. Mr. Landrum, himself, owns a Spartanburg history that is valued at $19. And E. L. Ballenger has another he values at $25. When a few hundred books get scattered over the nation they become rare. Mrs. M. C. Brendall, office secretary of the Tryon Chamber of Commerce is mailing copies out to people who apply direct to the commission. The Blue Ridge Weavers also have a number of copies for sale.

Promotion Day will be held at the Congregational Sunday School next Sunday with a special program beginning at 9:45. A colored motion picture of a Bible story will also be presented.
