THURSDAY, OCT. 11TH, 1951

Weather Wednesday: High 67, low 42, Rel. Hum. 36 . . . Fall is now in the air and soon the foliage will be beautiful all over the mountains. A grand time for motoring, hiking and picnicking. . . . Tryon friends are so involved in nationwide affairs that one gets the feeling that the community is so large that it reaches across the nation. The other night a television theatre play "Not A Chance", written by Thomas W. Phipps was presented with David Niven and Helen Hayes as the stars. In the current picture of Town and Country, a full picture of Mrs. Thomas W. Phipps was shown holding modeling clothes for a noted firm. Another picture of a group scene showed Mrs. Nora Flynn at the opening of an art gallery in New York . . . . Tonight is Duplicate Bridge night at Oak Hall hotel . . . Mrs. Sibyl Brendall, office secretary of the Tryon Chamber of Commerce reports a large number of renewal memberships in the organization to help carry on the work for the new year which began October 1. . . . Charles L. France of Toledo, O., writes for a copy of The Bulletin about the death of Mrs. E. B. Allen. He said Mrs. Allen's husband was his pastor for 17 years.

Hospital Auxiliary Hear Dr. Taylor; Elect Officers

Dr. George F. Taylor was the speaker at the quarterly meeting of the St. Luke's Hospital Auxiliary which was held Wednesday afternoon at 4 at the Congregational Church parlor. Dr. Taylor gave a very informative and inspirational talk explaining why the hospital is named for Luke, the New Testament writer and physician, and telling what aspects of Luke's character and writings should be displayed in the hospital.

The chief business of the meeting was the annual election of officers which took place with the following slate of officials unanimously elected:

President, Mrs. Harkness Smith; vice president, Mrs. Geo. Holmes; recording secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Henry Hart; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. D. Prather.

Several committee reports were heard and the treasurer emphasized that it was time for payment of annual dues and each member may send hers to the new treasurer, Mrs. Hentry Hart. All members present accorded Mrs. George Holmes, retiring president, and board a vote of appreciation for a fine year's work.
