Wilcox Leads Nation In Barred Rock Production

Raleigh, Dec. 17.—Two North Carolina poultry breeders using the new 300-day plan of trapnesting made excellent records for their breeds during the 1950-51 year, according to C. J. Maubin, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service.

T. N. Wilcox, Tryon, who produces Barred Plymouth Rocks, led all other breeders in the United States for this breed during the 300-day period. Wilcox not only obtained the highest per cent egg production for his entry, but also had the highest percentage to qualify with official R. O. P. (Record of Performance) records.

Beamsdale Farm, Shelby, ranked sixth nationally in per cent egg production in a group of 42 White Leghorn breeders using 300-day trapnesting. This farm had an average of 68.9 per cent production for all birds entered in the R. O. P. test.

Per cent egg production for the Wilcox flock of Barred Rocks was 62.7 for all birds entered.
