

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER AUGUST 20, 1928, AT THE POSTOFFICE
AT TRYON, N. C. UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, MARCH 3, 1879

Vol. 24—No. 332 TRYON, N. C., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1951

Weather was cold this morning, but the sunshine is delightful. Warmer weather predicted for Saturday . . . One of the biggest complaints now is the post office door which has a Yale spring on it so strong that when elderly women open it the door almost knocks them down. That's been that way for weeks and makes taxpayers feel, well, that's just some more government indifference. They can give millions to Europe but can't fix one post office door. Postmaster Henderson wishes something could be done about it. The American Legion owns the building. Maybe a special committee could get even act through Congress to have the job done. The manufacturer of the spring certainly would want the thing installed properly especially with the word YALE sticking out on it in big letters. If it can't be fixed I wouldn't have that kind of spring. Discussing it at Missildine's where they have a similar spring that works, Robert Dedmond, said the spring has to be set at a 45 degree angle and that the one at the post office is not put up right. J. J. Pittman, mechanic at Southern Mercery Co., agreed with him. He said he could fix the spring so it would work, that he has had lots of trouble with them.
