Vol. 24—No. 333 TRYON, N. C., MONDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1951

Weather Sunday: High 61, low 39, rain .06, Rel. Hum. 75 . . . During the holidays while the weatherman was on vacation the highest recorded temperature was 54 and the lowest 20, rain .26 inches. This is the last day of the month and of the year. A busy time for people in business, but tonight is a time for merriment. They criticised Lincoln for reading a joke book and laughing at a critical session of his cabinet. But he knew that human beings can stand just so much strain and then there must be relief. Laugh everytime you can and fight when you must. The soldier in the trenches wishes a Happy New Year for us all and wishes he were here, and so do we. God bless everyone of them . . . The biggest excitement over the weekend here, was the crash of a Butler coal truck against the front glass window of the Betty Sturgis Shop. The driver of the truck, Homer Frye, said the truck brakes gave way coming down Oak Hall hill. He said he tried to steer the truck into the side street between the depot and the American Legion Hall, but a car was coming out of that street so he guided the truck into the only available parking space on Pacolet street. The right side of the truck scraped

Another Patrolman Here

J. E. Ramsey, native of Kings Mountain, N. C., has arrived in Tryon to be an additional State Highway Patrolman to work with Patrolman W. R. Boyles. He and his ten-year-old daughter, Virginia Elizabeth, have an apartment at Mrs. C. A. Martin's on Grady Ave., while Mr. Ramsey is completing his training period with Mr. Boyles. He was one of 26 graduates of the Highway Patrol's Training School at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, where he received his commission and was sworn in by Secretary of State Thad Eure on December 21st.

After finishing his training period in Tryon he will move to Columbus, the County Seat, as soon as an apartment can be found. Mr. Ramsey was an infantryman in World War II and after the war he took an aviation course and holds a pilot's license.

Dinner For 45 Christmas

Miss Jeannette MacGregor, county superintendent of Public Welfare stated Friday that the Salvation Army from Spartanburg supplied 45 Christmas dinners for worthy people in Polk County. The list was supplied by Miss MacGregor's office.

ON GODFREY PROGRAM

Tryon radio listeners reported today that Arthur Godfrey was interviewing a group in New York this morning and that among the people there was a soldier, Dick Scudder of Tryon, N. C. Thanks to a number of Tryon radio listeners for the news.
