owners in this section have made it possible for the Forest Service to make these road improvements without the burden of cost being on the State and County.

Tryon Peak tower is manned during the fall and spring fire seasons. This usually runs about 5 to 6 months during the year and the towerman lives in the cabin provided at the tower site. Nearly all of his daylight time is spent in the tower watching for smokes that might occur. In this detection work the tower is connected by telephone to the local telephone exchange and by two-way radio to the county ranger's truck and other lookout towers that see parts of Polk County not clear to this location. A gasoline generator provides power for the operation of the two-way radio and for lights in the cabin and tower.

During the past 5 years the forest fire record in Polk County has been excellent. This record has been improving in direct proportion to the addition of improvements and with increase appropriations of financial appropriations by the county officials. The combined money available for expenditure in the county has never been adequate for complete forest fire protection. However, the work has progressed and the record in Polk County is comparable to that of adjoining counties. Every dollar spent for this work must count. County Ranger Feagan and his organization appreciates the cooperation of every citizen in the county in preventing fires and practicing good judgment in using fire while burning trash or other material. 98 per cent of the fires in North Carolina are man caused. The people in Polk County reducing this shameful waste in their forests and everybody will profit.
