BERGIN ON NEW TRIP

Edgar Bergen left Hollywood on January 28th for another whirlwind aerial junket, in which he will visit military hospitals, a Marine base in Havana, and will play benefit shows at two small towns—one in Texas and the other in Florida—to express his appreciation for their outstanding contributions to his earlier "Operation Santa Claus" tour.

The little town of Post, Texas, inviting visitors from scores of surrounding towns, and expects to have a crowd totaling three times its normal population of 3100 gathered in a rodeo arena for Bergen's benefit performance there on January 31st. The money is to be used to help build a new county hospital, and Bergen's appearance is his way of saying thanks to the town for its remarkable contribution to his Santa Claus trip to military hospitals across the country.

"This little Texas panhandle town contributed enough gifts to take care of one entire hospital," said Bergen. "They were all wrapped together into one huge package and every store in town—and almost every individual—was represented."

Bergen and his wooden-headed pals will be augmented by several other entertainers for the tour.
