Vol. 25—No. 31 TRYON, N. C. THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1952

CURB REPORTER

Weather Wednesday: High 67, low 34, Rel. Hum. 35 . . . A lot of emphasis is being placed on the Kefauver-Eisenhower victory in the New Hampshire presidential preference primary. In Tryon many local Republicans are calling on all supporters of Eisenhower to meet at Oak Hall Friday night at 7:30. Taft supporters are not dismayed . . . Blizzard hits Kansas and Dakotas. Today's Asheville Citizen has a picture of the flooded French Broad River between Hendersonville and Brevard where roads and valleys were turned into a huge lake . . . A lot of people have been moaning the loss of the once beautiful plum tree near the depot. It is dying. Only one limb is now living and white with blossoms. From Rockland, Mass., where the snow has melted on the south side of houses for six inches of daffodils, comes the following:

Wedding of the Trees

There is a tree, in Tryon Town,
 Hope you all have seen.
 She is so beautiful and fair—
 The white plum tree, I mean.
 Right by the gateway of the Town
 She stands beside the Evergreen
 Looking at her beloved,
 The tall Pine.
 Magnolia, the rosy one
 Her bridesmaid is to be
 And soon Forsy their golden bells
 Will make glad wedding music
 ring

Across the waiting forest dells.

Helen Louise Fitts.

Every tree and beauty spot in Tryon make impressions on our visitors. All the more reason why we should keep our corners free
