CONVERTED GANGSTER TO TELL LIFE STORY

Anthony Zeoli, evangelist and Bible teacher, will give his life story from prison to pulpit on Sunday night at 7:45 in the big hall, 2 miles South of Landrum on the Spartanburg-Asheville highway.

The Rev. R. R. Brooks stated Thursday:

"Zeoli will portray in his graphic inimitable word picture the amazing, and astounding and almost incredible story of his life."

Born in Philadelphia in 1898, of Italian parents, Zeoli as a school boy ran away from home to seek adventure. He soon found himself in the heart of the Philadelphia underworld.

While in the underworld Zeoli was introduced to dope which he soon learned to like and to use. Within a very short time Zeoli found himself to be a slave to the dope. For nine years he tried hard to free himself of the dope habit, by taking treatment after treatment. Zeoli claims that there is but one cure for sin and for the dope habit, that cure said Zeoli is not "will power," but the power of Jesus Christ and the power of His blood. Christ alone can break the power of sin, dope and drink and Christ alone can set the prisoner free.

Converted in the Eastern State Penitentiary in Philadelphia October 22, 1920, through a New Testament which was sent to him by a relative, Zeoli soon got a grasp of the word of God which he studied by day and night, and which he hid in his heart, and committed to memory.

He was granted permission by the prison authorities to preach in
