Weather Monday: High 88, low 61, Rel. Hum. 54. . . . The Republican Convention is underway and those who have television sets are enjoying the event from nearly every angle while sitting in their own home. They can be just as comfortable as their home can make them and yet hear and see the speakers from a view point not possible for the delegates. The close-up pictures and the views of the commentators give the television spectators a treat never realized before. General MacArthur's keynote speech Monday night brought forth tremendous applause . . . Today, the All-Star baseball game between the American and National League teams at Philadelphia beginning at 12:30 will claim national attention . . . IT'S McCOWN ST. NOW

The new street made by cutting away the Oak Hall bank has been without a name since it was opened. At the last meeting of the Town Council the thoroughfare was named McCown Street in recognition of the services of Town Attorney Ryan McCown in getting the street made. The Southern Railway, the Highway Department, the Town government and others all had to be brought into agreement before the project could be accomplished. The street now eliminates the necessity of much traffic having to cross the railroad and also provides additional parking space for many cars.

The Town now has underway a plan to eliminate left turns in front of Missildine's. West or North Trade Street traffic from Goodyear's to Missildine's desiring to cross the railroad will be routed to the next turning point to bring cars back in front of the police station where a right turn can be made to cross the railroad. Officials state they hope this will eliminate some of the confusion caused by cars trying to break through the line of traffic to make a left hand turn at Missildine's. If it doesn't work something else will be tried.
