Successful Azalea Sale To Be Repeated Wednesday

Last year, when the Mens Club of the Church of the Holy Cross planned their Azalea Sale, they thought that 1000 plants would be top-maximum sales. You can imagine how pleased they were when the 1000 plants they brought in the first lot were gobbled up and very nearly 1000 more were taken by a beauty hungry Tryon and vicinity. Dozens of homes were made more colorful and attractive with the gorgeous azaleas which this sale brought them. Many of them are in the planting around the St. Luke's Hospital Exchange and Dr. Preston's office. It is a worthy endeavor, and we are happy that it is not only going to be repeated this year, but broadened out to include many more types of Azaleas, and two types of Camellias.

The first section of the sale comes Wednesday at 10 o'clock on the new parking lot behind Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Ernest Burwell and Bill Barrow are managing the sale and will be assisted by fellow club members. They promise outstanding plants at prices far below current catalogue prices, especially when you add transportation costs. There will be Indica Azaleas, which have large blooms and exotic colors; Camellias of the Japonica family, which are the show pieces of many fine gardens in Tryon; and Sasanqua Camellias, early bloomers, and the hardiest of all camellias. Last of all, just for spice, some ruby-red berried Pycnanthas.

Mrs. John Higgins and daughter of Landrum have been discharged as patients from St. Luke's Hospital. No new patients.
