No figures have been given out on the results of the Methodist Turkey Dinner Wednesday night, but the school cafeteria was filled several times with enthusiastic customers from all the churches of the community showing their interest and support of the movement of the Tryon Methodists to build a new church. The church couldn't make money on the meal served for $1.50 if the food had to be purchased, but since most of it was donated as well as the labor of cooking and serving, nearly everything was profit. The spirit of fellowship and neighborliness and general good will developed by the dinner was worth the effort . . . The opening day of the three days of DOLLAR DAYS by Tryon mer-

BUY FLYNN HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gilbert have bought the Broadus B. Flynn house in Pickens Park. The Flynn house designed by their son, Ligon, an architectural student at State College, Raleigh, is one of the most modern in the community. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert sold their home, the former Windsor-Mitchell-Marsh place some time ago. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn will build a home on a tract of land bought some time ago from the Erskine Estate, overlooking the Tryon Country Club golf course. Sale was made through G. Harrison Bridgeman & Son.

LANDRUM NEWS

Landrum Town Clerk Joe Gentry is ill with the mumps.

The Red Cross committee headed by Miss Myrtle Foster with the assistance of the garden and civic clubs went over the top in its assigned quota of $350 by raising $360.

The Ruritan Club has just placed three attractive road signs at the three main highway entrances to the community which welcome visitors to Landrum and to attend the church of their choice.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Luke Kilpatrick, Tryon, and Mrs. Ned Bradshaw of Landrum were admitted to St. Luke's Hospital. Patients discharged include Mrs. George Walker and baby girl and Clyde Hooker, both of Lynn; Thomas Foster, Star Route, Saluda.

Mrs. J. A. Moore and children of Westfield, Mass., are visiting Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ballew.
