THE COST OF WAR

John E. Lee, news editor of the Paris office of the International News Service, addressed the Kiwanis Club Tuesday at Oak Hall. Mr. Lee spoke on the political and economic condition in France and gave the background and causes of the present critical situation.

The speaker said that the average wage in France today was $25 a week, but that meat cost 90c a pound and that housing was almost impossible to obtain. Inflation as we know it in America does not compare with inflation as the Frenchman knows it. Mr. Lee said that most Frenchmen spend every franc they make so they will not be left with worthless money.

Causes of these economics conditions were costs of World War I and repairing the destruction caused by it; of World War II
