CURB REPORTER

Weather Monday: High 91, low 63, Rel. Hum. 55 . . . 28 business houses had a double page ad in Monday's Bulletin congratulating B. Frank Carruth on the opening of Carruth's Furniture Store in Landrum, S. C. The spirit of co-operation and joint advertising by Landrum merchants are helping to bring the community forward. The new building is located on Highway 176 and is modern in every way. The public is invited to the opening. Attractive free door prizes are being offered to visitors Wednesday. Mr. Carruth is one of Landrum's most successful business and civic leaders. He will continue to operate his other stores nearby on the same side of the street . . . St. Luke's Hospital is listed again this year on the fully approved hospitals accredited by the American College of Surgeons. St. Luke's Hospital is the only hospital with that high rating between Spartanburg and Asheville (north and south) and the only one that good between Rutherfordton on the east and Chattanooga, Tenn., on the west. This is a tribute to the men and women of the hospital board, staff and auxiliary and to the hundreds of donors who make the hospital possible . . . Francis A. Weaver, an ancestor of the McFarlands here, was postmaster at Horse Creek, N. C., in 1847 on a spot near the Weaverbarton Farm which still carries part of the name. Horse Creek still flows through the property from Sunkawaken Falls. Polk County had just been organized for the first time, only to be abolished in 1849.

The Willows will be closed for two weeks from June 26th until July 10th.
