Weather Wednesday: High 81, low 54, Rel. Hum. 45 . . . Gov. W. B. Umstead will speak Thursday night over a state-wide radio network to explain the bond election of Oct. 3. Those who want to know more about it before they vote should listen to the governor. The bonds will call for 72 million dollars to aid our mental hospitals and public schools to take care of emergency needs. Leaders in both factions of the Democratic Party are urging the people to vote for the bonds for the money is needed to help our youth and the mentally sick regardless of age. It is no political problem. It is a humanitarian issue that calls on the support of everyone regardless of race, creed, or other differences. New voters have another chance to register at their voting precinct this Saturday . . . School Supt. J. W. Gantt speaks on the subject tonight at Stearns school. Cary L. Page of the Tryon School Board will talk on it next week at the Tryon P.-T. A. . . . Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina is prominently mentioned as a successor to the late Judge Vinson on the Supreme Court . . . Red China navy ship shoots at British launch near Hong Kong, kills six and wounds five. This may cause trouble. . . . CORRECTION: the Audrey Thompson, the

STEEL BLEACHERS AT HARMON FIELD

Steel bleachers to seat 1,000 people have been installed at Harmon Field to be used for the first time Friday night at the football game between Tryon and District One, composed of Inman, Campobello, Gramling, Landrum and Holly Springs High Schools.

The bleachers are portable and can be moved about the field for use in other activities such as baseball, field events, horse shows, gymkhanas and other public gatherings.

The bleachers cost nearly $4,000 and a committee headed by W. L. Hague has been appointed to plan ways and means to raise the money to pay for the bleachers and the balance due on the lighting equipment. The Tryon Chamber of Commerce directors are also studying the situation to see what the community in general can do to help in this recreation project.

Tryon Chamber of Commerce Annual Meeting September 23

The annual meeting of the Tryon Chamber of Commerce will be held Sept. 23 at 8 p. m. at Oak Hall. Election of new directors, committee reports and general discussion on needs of the community will be held.

At the meeting of the board of directors Monday night George Webster was welcomed as a new member of the board to fill the unexpired term of Dr. C. W. McCall who resigned.

J. Lee Lavender gave a report on his contact with Senator Clyde R. Hoev on the possibility of getting free delivery from the Tryon Post Office. The senator assured
