STUDY HERBS HERE

The Columbus Garden Club met last week at Pearson's Falls where they visited the Herbarium and heard Dr. Oliver Freeman demonstrate the collection and preparation of the various herbs found in this section. Dr. Freeman showed them some herbs that had not publicly been reported anywhere. All were within the Polk County area. Dr. Freeman has covered a considerable part of the county in search of rare herbs for his collection. Mrs. H. L. Arledge was the hostess.

The North Carolina corn crop for 1953 is forecast at 58,380,000 bushels.
