Christmas Preparations

The Tryon Fire Department urges everyone to make a careful inspection of all their Christmas lights, wiring, connections and extension cords. Let's all have a safe and happy holiday season. We are also making plans for our annual Christmas tree party for all the kids in this area. Anyone wishing to contribute to our fund please give to any fireman or Bulletin office.—Cont.

No Steak Supper Thursday

Oak Hall Hotel will serve Thanksgiving dinner at noon on Thursday but no meal in the evening in order to give staff members part of a holiday. The usual Thursday night steak suppers will be resumed next week.

Reynolds Stables Open

J. Arthur Reynolds is announcing in the Bulletin the opening of his stables in the Hunting Country and at Pine Crest Inn for the winter season.

Hunters and pleasure horses will be available throughout the season. Reservations have already been made by out of town people for horses to be used in the hunt on Saturday which will be the second event of the hunt season. The first will be Thanksgiving Day.

Children desiring to learn to ride will be given a special rate and a guide during certain periods.

Every year Reynolds horses win trophies and blue ribbons at horse shows and other riding events throughout the south, east and mid-west, and Arthur Reynolds is one of the best riding instructors in the country, according to officials of horse shows.
