Vol. 26—No. 127 TRYON, N. C. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1953

Weather Monday: High 48, low 40, rain 1.34, Rel. Hum. 56 President Eisenhower urges all communities to make preparations against atomic war and in case of attack to avoid panic. One of the best ways to avoid destruction by atomic war is to start now being kind to our neighbors and members of our families. We must set the example. When our families spread out they soon become strangers. A lot of brothers and sisters don't see one another after they grow up. Their nieces and nephews are not known. They become people of the world, strangers whom we compete against economically and otherwise, and if they move across boundary lines, people we must fight. That's one reason we should consider every stranger a brother, and treat him with genuine kindness. For a selfish reason if for no other. In the long run we find it a lot of fun and real joy not matched by anything else. It has the deep satisfaction of victory with humility, not something to crow about, like victory in war or a game, but a victory over evil forces within us; and then the joy of fellowship with similar minds who understand and appreciate our struggles and our mutual goals for a better world. Let's start today with our kindness in every way and keep

Tryon Splits With Inman

Last night in the Tryon gym the Tryon girls earned a hard 47-38 win while the boys dropped a 95-71 decision to Inman High. Myrna Constance and Lila Hancock took scoring honors for the girls while Hazel Edwards, Ann Moon and Margaret Blackwell played their usual brilliant defensive game. The Tryon boys played well but could not stop Inman's big Marshall Perkins, who dropped in 43 points from every angle. Ronnie Ross, Raleigh Parker, and Kite Biedler led Tryon's scorers while John Bradshaw played a great floor game.—School Reporter.

LANDRUM, MILL SPRING RURITANS WIN IN DISTRICT CONTESTS

At the district convention held at Fairforest last Friday the Landrum Ruritan Club won first place for outstanding community service, for participation in numerous civic improvements, especially work toward getting a new million dollar industry for the community.

Mill Spring club tied Central, S. C., for honors in its expansion program.

Richard E. Tukey, manager of Spartanburg Chamber of Commerce, Editor Charles O. Hearon and Dean Ward were the judges. Mr. Tukey in presenting the awards stated that the judges saw Ruritans as good citizens doing much to better their communities.
