

Back From Disneyworld

Shown above is Scoutmaster Raymond Anderson and his troop of Boy Scouts in Charlotte who are handicapped. The boys returned recently from a trip to Disneyworld at Orlando, Fla. The troop put on bake sales, attic sales, etc. to raise money for the trip and were aided by contributions from people who wanted to help out — including some from the Tryon area. They raised over $3,000.

Mr. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson of Tryon and was an eagle scout himself in Tryon Troop No. 1. He has been scoutmaster of this group of handicapped boys since its 19 years of existence. The 15 members of Troop 222 are equipped with wheelchairs, leg, neck and head braces.

Communication

Stray and Injured Animals

The Polk County Animal Protection Society is calling attention by an ad in this issue and subsequent issues of the Bulletin to the services available by the Polk County Animal Shelter located in Rutherfordon, Phone 1-287-2211. This shelter is a joint operation of Polk and Rutherford Counties, being supported in part by Polk County tax funds, and co-operates fully with the Polk County Dog Warden's Office in Columbus, which office is the charge of Deputy Paul Toney, Phone 894-8271. If you have a problem with a stray animal, the shelter or Deputy Paul Toney will arrange to pick it up, probably the next day. If you have an injured animal, they will arrange for help as soon as possible, preferably if you call the shelter direct.

A stray animal will be held by the shelter for claiming by the owner for three days, and then if not claimed, it will be up for adoption for an additional four days. If not claimed or adopted, the animal will be humanely disposed of.

Sheldon A. Raiser, Pres.

The 29th Judicial District Bar Association annual meeting will be held at Fairfield Mountain Country Club on Saturday, August 23rd. The Rutherford County Bar is host this year. One item of business will be the endorsement by the 29th Bar of a nominee for the vacancy on the 29th District Court Judgeship to fill the unexpired term of Judge Hollis M. Owens, Jr., recently appointed to the 29th Resident Superior Court Judgeship.

Elect Officers

The Polk County Bar met on August 18, and elected the following officers:

President, W. Vance McCown; Vice President, Hugh L. Key, Jr.; Secretary, R. Jay Foster.

Mr. Key was selected by the Polk County Bar to be a Nominee to the Board of Directors of legal Services of North Carolina. This is the expanded six-county program for providing legal services to civil indigents, as approved by the Legal Services Corporation in Washington, D. C. Within the very near future, the local Department of Social Services will be preparing to screen applicants for this new program. Legal Services Corporation has decided that legal services programs in the Madison, Henderson, Transylvania, Polk and Rutherford Counties shall be built upon and, expanded from, the existing program of Buncombe County.

Bobby Henson, Jr. has entered UNC at Chapel Hill where he is a junior.

Communication

Having spent forty years in the banking business, thirty in the loan end of it, I believe that I am well acquainted with the factors considered when extending loans.

In the case of one to an individual, the first consideration would be its purpose.

Secondly, does the individual have both a stable and adequate enough income to repay the size loan requested.

Thirdly, does the individual have a favorable credit record based on comparable credit extensions.

Lastly, if the above factors are on the thin side there would be a need for collateral.

On this basis Libya had to know that Billy did not qualify for a loan of over two hundred thousand. They had to have based its extension on the fact that blood is thicker than water and that extension of the loan would have collateral benefits.

Don't think they could have assumed this either, on just Bill's assurance. What do you think?
