

Hearing Aid Bank

You who have supported the Polk County Extension Homemakers Hearing Aid Bank, are recipients of many grateful thanks. So far, five Polk County residents have received help directly or indirectly through the bank, not counting those 79 people who were screened for hearing loss.

The Bank has been established for the benefit of people who need help in obtaining a hearing aid and can not receive aid through any other source. The Bank can only give this help if the correct hearing aid is in our hands. Please, donate any hearing aids you have on hand that are not in use and help someone to hear. Leave hearing aids at the Extension Office in Columbus, at the Meeting Place in Tryon or Pace's Store in Saluda. — Reporter

"Social, Artistic" Hit Ingwersen Art Show

By Eugene Warner

The Louis Ingwersen art show which opened Sunday at the fine Arts Center was a great social as well as artistic success.

The gallery was packed with old friends and admirers of Mr. Ingwersen, who died last May. The crowd saw many of his watercolors never on public display before. They were on loan from the homes of many Tryon residents. The crowd was enthusiastic about the overall quality of Ingwersen's work.

The retrospective made not only his widow, "Bert", happy but also another widow, Mrs. Michael (Ruth) Danis, president of the Tryon Painters and Sculptors Club. Mrs. Danis had to put the show together in a hurry — to replace a show originally scheduled for Claire Miller Hopkins of Spartanburg for the month of November. She does pastels and water colors. She failed to keep her date.

In the opinion of this reviewer, the Ingwersen show was better than the one originally scheduled, and certainly more popular with the Tryon public. Mrs. Danis is to be congratulated on her quick solution to a vexing problem.

The versatility of Lou Ingwersen, the variety of ideas for pictures that came to his mind, here, there, whether in Paris, in Tryon, in Louisiana — everywhere — are revealed in the show open to the public free of charge through November. Some examples:

"Bellgrath Gardens" (property of O. O. Paulsell) is an extraordinary example of detail in a watercolor. The picture shows a courtyard of the famous gardens near Mobile. The centerpiece in a balcony rimmed by a white scrollwork cast iron railing. Every single detail in that balcony railing is clearly shown.

Completely different in style is a country road scene owned by the Walter Culiins, very loosely sketched, no details, pine trees, a splash of green, shadows on the road merely swashes of pale cream and grey.

"Street Scene in Rome" is a multitude of fine details — every flute in two fluted columns clearly defined, not a detail missing in the complicated decorative facade of a small church.

"Barn in Wisconsin" is a complete contrast — a great bulk of grey-black covering most of the paper in the frame, a very effective study.

"St. Augustine" is a crisp sketch of white and dunes, silhouetted palmettos, the clear, clean scene bathed in sparkling sunlight.

Recertified In Family Practice

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Dr. Roy L. Morgan of Columbus, N. C. has been recertified as a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP) as a result of passing a recertification examination offered by the ABFP. He thus maintains his specialist status in the medical specialty of family practice.

ABFP diplomates must continue to show proof of competence in the field of comprehensive, continuing care of the family by being recertified every six years. No other medical specialty requires diplomates to prove competence on a continuing basis.

The written examination is designed to prove the candidate's continuing competence in the various components of family practice — internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry and community medicine.
