Weather Tuesday: high 66, low 45. Wednesday morning was a little windy, but still a beautiful day.

It is still hard for us to realize that we can sit in our homes and see pictures of Saturn that are being taken about 4 million miles away. Voyager 1, one day from its rendezvous with Saturn, astonished scientists Tuesday with pictures of two misshapen ringlets set amid the planet's concentric rings and what may be a huge hill on one of its 15 frozen moons.

The rate at which Americans bought single family homes dropped 14% in September as resurging mortgage rates and a sharp jump in home prices apparently scared away potential buyers.

Archaeologists uncovering ancient remains of American Indians are struggling to stay ahead of bulldozer blades ripping up soil for a Tennessee Valley Authority nuclear plant. The graves of the Indians from the late Archaic Period — about 3,000 years ago — lie within sight of the plant's cooling towers.

Miss Cardinal Pageant Saturday

On Saturday, Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m., the Annual Staff of Landrum High School will sponsor the Miss Cardinal Pageant in the school gymnasium.

Luci Little and Jody Brown, co-editors of the 1981 Cardinals, will serve as mistresses of ceremony as twenty contestants compete for the honor of representing the school as Miss Cardinal. Proceeds from the pageant are used each year to send annual staff members to journalism workshops during the summer.

Pageant contestants were chosen by elections in the junior and senior classes. Each girl in the contest will appear in both casual and formal wear for the judges.

Contestants representing the senior class include: Jackie Blanton, Melinda Burrell, Rita Hamrick, Denise Ramsey and Kathy Stott. Also, Terry Tanguay, Terry Taylor, Marilyn Thompson, Tammy Tolleson, and Susanne Williams.

Junior class contestants will be: Donna Ayers, Kelly Brown, Sharon Collins, Candi Davis, and Donna Hutchins. Also, Sonya Maybry, Sonya McDowell, Candy Morgan, Lisa Settle, and Linda Tanguay.

Carolyn Allen of Spartanburg, Carl Golden of Inman, Marguerite Foster of Roebuck, and Charlie McCoy from radio station WANS will serve as

New Instructor For Tryon Painters And Sculptors

The Tryon Painters & Sculptors are presenting a new instructor in their studio for the coming winter session of classes.

Ms. Paulette Roberts, originally from Morganton, W. Va. and now a resident of Tryon, has joined the teaching staff with a night class in Drawing and Painting for Young Adults.

A student of Salem College, Winston-Salem and University of Georgia, she has a degree in Art Education, Drawing and Painting. She has also studied abroad in Cortana, Italy. Her work experiences are many and varied with several exhibitions both abroad and here in the states.

The Winter Session of TP&S starts December 1st and the Young Adults Drawing and Painting Class will begin on Wednesday, Dec. 3 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Watch the local papers for a full schedule of all the art classes.
