There's a fireman who's rather shy

That we all know pretty good
Make's his living with a hammer
Driving nails into wood.

He built his home
In Tryon's Camelot
Has friends down at Red Fox
The upper echelon

Chews bac'cer and snuff
Drinks beer at will
Gin Monster won't get him
But the Budman will

HAPPY BIRTHDAY BAM BAM

Hersey Article In "Southern World"

The December issue of "Southern World" magazine which is on the news stands now has an article, "A Victorian Christmas" by Janet R. Hersey. The article tells of old-fashioned splendor being re-created each year at North Carolina's Biltmore House. A number of pictures show the various rooms and their decorations. Mrs. Hersey, husband David, and children make their home in Green Creek (Rt. 1, Campobello, S. C.)

Rhododendron Society

The Southeastern Chapter, American Rhododendron Society will meet Nov. 16th at 3 p.m. at Biltmore Forest Town Hall.

The speaker will be Professor Bill Hooks, University of Tennessee Retired, National Park Service VIP. His topic will be "The Great Smoky Mountains". Professor Hooks will share his knowledge of the Smokies to include native azaleas and rhododendrons.

To arrive when one's gears don't mesh
Was by something experts call
In high we got here
But now we must fear
Reversing ourselves out of the mess.
