The Conductor

Joe Erwin

Called back to conduct the annual Christmas program at the Fine Arts Center, Joe Erwin is well into rehearsal of the largest Rotary Community Chorus that has appeared in Tryon.

With a solid core of experienced voices, accustomed now to singing with each other, the Chorus literally absorbs the many new voices that have enrolled to share in the coming second Feast of Christmas. The result is a rich blend that responds, as if by magic, to the sensitive interpretations of conductor Joe Erwin. A chorus of eighty voices is greater by far than the sum of its parts, even though music is subject to the laws of mathematics. But the real miracle occurs when the audience loses all sense of notes and technique, and simply revels in the feeling.

It is doubtful that anybody grasps this philosophy of music better than Joe Erwin. Years of experience have equipped him with the uncanny ability to fuse the notes and symbols of the musical score with the people who sing them.

The annual program for this year, a second edition of The Feast of Christmas, is scheduled for the Fine Arts Center on Saturday, December 13 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, December 14 at 3 p.m.
