

Childrens Choir

The Children's Interchurch Choir, a group of seventy singers from grades three through eight at Tryon Elementary School, will sing for the Community Thanksgiving Service at the Tryon Presbyterian Church on Thanksgiving Day at 10:00 a.m. and at the Thanksgiving Assembly at Tryon Elementary School at one o'clock on Wednesday.

Mrs. Russell Cloud will direct the singers in a collection of songs of Thanksgiving. The choir has been accompanied in rehearsals and performances by four choir-masters from local churches, Joseph Erwin, choirmaster of the Tryon Congregational Church, William Bradley, Choirmaster of the Church of the Holy Cross; Peter Kutt, Choirmaster of Tryon United Methodist Church and Hass Viegland, Choirmaster of Tryon Presbyterian Church.

Viegland has served as chairman of the Interchurch Choir committee and has worked with the Tryon Community Schools office and Tryon Elementary School principal, Elmo Neal, to organize the volunteer children's choir.

The choir was organized out of a common interest between the churches of Tryon and the Tryon City Schools for the children to have an opportunity to sing choral music. Several attempts had been made to organize choral groups for children. "This seems to be a very successful way to bring the musical talents of Tryon together with the children eager to sing and to learn. We are grateful to so many talented musicians who share their talents with our children," said Joe

Wray, Community Schools Coordinator.

Mrs. Russell Cloud has worked with children's choir in the Tryon area for many years.

The public is invited.
