

Following the autographing of the beautiful Birds of the Carolinas at the Book Shelf Saturday, fourteen Club members from Spartanburg, and Cedar Mountain as well as the Tryon area met with Eloise Potter at the Hearthstone. Mrs.

Potter is not only one of the three authors of the book, but also is editor of the Chat, the Club's quarterly magazine. Those present enjoyed hearing some of the experiences in gathering 338 photographs mostly from club members and preparing the text material, entirely written by club members. The book was originally proposed by the University of North Carolina press and has been a dozen years in the making. First copies were available in October.
