Weather Thursday: high 43, low 22. Friday was a nice day but a cool winter day.

Ruben J. Daiey, 70, of Asheville died Thursday. He was Asheville's first black city councilman and was a leader in the civil rights movement for many years.

President-elect Ronald Reagan has picked Bill Brock, Republican National Committee chairman to be special trade representative filling the final cabinet level slot in the new administration, sources said Thursday.

A car apparently went out of control Thursday night and hit the railing at the Trade Street Gallery on Trade Street. The railing and a big chunk of concrete were pulled away from the building and pieces of rock were scattered along Trade Street. The car didn't stop, but the police say its a dark blue car that must have some big dents in it.

The Tryon Town Council meets tonight at 7:30 in Saluda and the Columbus Council meets at 7 p.m.
