

Many Exhibits At April Craft Show

Tryon Crafts opened its 12th Annual Exhibit in the Gallery of the Fine Arts Center Sunday, March 29th with a capacity crowd and a reception in the Mural Room. The exhibit will continue throughout the month from 10 to 12 and 2 to 4 Mondays through Saturdays.

The exhibit displays a wide variety of articles crafted in its many classes. The largest number of articles appeared to come from its needlework classes, including pillows, hangings, chairseats, purses and footwear in petit point, needlepoint, bargello, pulled thread, cross-stitch, blackwork, crewel and sculptured embroidery, the last being used in a striking portrait of off-white madonna.

The woodcarvers are exhibiting a number of articles, large and small, in different kinds of wood. They include several carved animals, a boy and his fishing pole, servers and miniature tools. A magnificent carved eagle spreads its wings between the jewelry cabinets.

The jewelery, displayed in two wall cabinets, comprises a variety of articles fashioned principally in silver, with many featuring colored or variegated stones. The items on display include bolas, bracelets, pendants, earrings and belt buckles. One item of interest was a geode with a silver crucifix in its sparkling cavity.

The classes in spinning, dyeing and weaving have many displays in the textile arts. Samples of raw wool are followed by hanks of spun wool and an exhibit of wool strands produced by vegetable dyes in a dyeing class last fall. A number of knitted articles are also on exhibit, including a sweater knit from Tryon collie hair.

Many products from the weaving class are exhibited, including pillows, hangings, a long dress, scarves and a handsome bedspread at the Gallery entrance. There is also an exhibit of homespun clothes of the style worn by Appalachian mountaineers.

A number of exhibits from the rug-hooking classes are displayed, not only floor rugs but wall hangings depicting scenes in vivid colors. From the enameling class are many decorative articles produced by a variety of enameling techniques on copper.

There are also exhibits of macrame, chair caning and pierced lampshades. Finally, the teacher of the new pottery classes being held in the new Farwell Annex to the Arts Center has loaned several of her ceramic works — a foretaste of a new art form which Tryon craftsmen will be showing at future exhibits. — Crafts Reporter
