Nat. Geo. Slide-Talk May 11, Selling Out

High adventure from the high priest of the world's largest nonprofit scientific and education institution: That's the promise of Gilbert M. Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, presenting, a slide-talk at the Fine Arts Center, next Monday May 11th at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $5. for the lecture and "Meet Gil Grosvenor" punch bowl reception.

A limited number of lecture tickets are still available at: The Book Shelf, NCNB, Northwestern Bank, Red Cross Office, Blue Ridge Weavers, Columbus Pharmacy, Mullins Cleaners, Landrum. All ticket holders will receive a complimentary pre-publication copy of the June issue of the National Geographic, carrying a cover price of $1.45.

As the Society's fifth generation president, Grosvenor is continuing a tradition of family service to the organization dating back to 1888. That almost matches the 100th Anniversary of the American Red Cross, which is the local beneficiary of Grosvenor's visit.
