Weather Thursday: high 56, low 20, hum. 35%. Friday morning was sunny and warmer.

Turkey's consul general to Los Angeles was assassinated Thursday by two gunmen who fired eight to 10 shots at him as he sat in his car stopped at a red light. Armenian terrorists claimed responsibility for the slaying. It was the second time in nine years that Turkey's consul general to Los Angeles had been assassinated.

The South Carolina Public Service Commission has ordered Duke Power Co. to give customer refunds with interest for a portion of the rates the utility has been charging since December.

In Centalla, Mo., nine houses were destroyed and 11 other buildings damaged by fires Thursday when a gas line regulator was struck by a backhoe, boosting natural gas pressure to some homes. The increased pressure "caused fire to come shooting out of the furnaces," setting about 20 fires. One house blew up and that it was just bang, bang, bang in a chain reaction according to Terry Mansfield the fire chief.

Today at 12 noon is the filing

Armstrong-Park Here Feb. 5 & 6

Friday and Saturday, February 5 and 6, The Upstairs will present Anglo-American Traditional music as played by Fred and Jenny Armstrong-Park. This couple has been touring the country sharing the songs, stories and dances. On Friday evening at eight o'clock the Armstrong-Parks will perform songs and ballads and stories, and on Saturday evening they will call a square dance.

Jenny plays fiddle, guitar, banjo and bowed psaltery, and as a special treat the Great Highland Bagpipe. Fred plays harmonica and washboards, spoons and fiddlestix, and is a first rate storyteller — an important part of their performances. He also calls old-time running sets, contra dances, and circle dances.

The Armstrong-Parks have played all across the country, notably at the Spoleto Festival in Charleston, the National Storytelling Festival in Jonesboro, Tenn.; Union Grove Fiddler's Convention; and the John C. Cambell Folk School in Brasstown.

Both events begin at 8 p.m.
