Guilty Plea

Robin A. Earley, 21, of Landrum, Route 1, driving under the influence, third offense, failure to stop for a police officer; and aggravated assault; two years on each, to run concurrently and probation revoked. — Spartanburg Herald

Honor Volunteers

The week of April 25—30 was designated to honor volunteers nationwide. The Polk County Senior Center (the Meeting Place) takes this opportunity to recognize its volunteer program. Due to a very busy schedule last week, we failed to get an article prepared for the media. Please accept our apology.

We do take great pride in our volunteer program and our leaders. The program and services to the elderly could not be met without their support and dedication. North Carolina has a very high percentage of volunteers, and it is our joy to be an organization with positions they can serve. Meeting Place volunteers serve in various capacities and interested individuals may contact the center Monday thru Friday 9 a.m. — 4 p.m. for information. Our telephone number is 859-9707.

In the past, our appreciation luncheon has been scheduled in April, but due to renovation and program changes, we find it necessary to schedule the appreciation dinner at a later date. This will be a combined event, Open House for the public on June 5 (Sat.) 3—5 p.m. and recognition dinner for volunteers at 6 p.m. Invitations will follow. — Reporter

If your porcelain sink or bathtub is stained from constant dripping, get your faucet fixed. Then rub out the stain with pumice stone.
