Pet Logs Sold

Assets of Pet Logs, Inc. of Landrum were purchased on March 1st by Zema Corporation of Raleigh. Pet Logs, Inc. manufactures red cedar dog houses, bird houses and compost bins.

Zema is a national producer of products for pets including flea and tick shampoo, sprays, dips, grooming products and electric flea traps.

According to Hal Bowman, president, Zema plans to expand the Landrum facility as new products and distribution are developed. "The Pet Logs products are attractive and unique," said Bowman. "We are pleased with our new employees and excited about the potential of using our selling and distribution system to help increase the volume from the Pet Logs plant."

Zema currently manufactures over 50 products sold under the Zema and Pulvex trade names in pet stores and pet departments of grocery, drug and general merchandise stores. The company was a part of Burroughs Wellcome, the Research Triangle Park drug manufacturer, until purchased in 1980 by an investor group led by Bowman and Zema Executive Vice-President, Dorothy Jackson. Jackson will have management responsibility for the Landrum operation.
