Weather Wednesday: high 65, low 49, hum. 46 percent.

France rejected mounting criticism Wednesday that it went too far in praising Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi for helping free three hostages, and it denied paying a ransom of three warplanes for their release.

FBI Director William S. Sessions said Wednesday the government is searching for fraud at 530 failed financial institutions as part of its effort to lay blame for the collapse of the savings and loan industry.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev warned in remarks broadcast Wednesday that recurring internal Soviet borders would lead to civil war and "such bloody carnage that we won't be able to crawl out of it."

Many of our residents have had interesting and unusual lives. Stanislas Czetwertynski who died Thursday morning was a native of Poland. In Poland, when you had an estate, you were a prince and all your sons were called princes, and daughters princesses. Thus he was Prince Stanislas Czetwertynski. He was the Polish national tennis champion from 1925 to 1927 and

TCC Mixed Wing-Ding

On Sunday, April 22, the Tryon Country Club will sponsor the first Mixed Wing-Ding Tournament of the year. Members can sign up for the tournament and select tee times beginning Sunday, April 15.

Full handicaps, averaged for the foursome will apply. Order of play will require all to drive on each hole. The player whose drive is selected does not participate in second shot. The other three players hit from position of selected drive. This procedure is repeated until holed out.

Following the tournament, there will be snack and beverage get together and winner's circle at 5 p. m. at the club house. Those planning to attend should sign up on the sheet provided on the porch of the club house before April 19 — Reporter

C. T. Scanner Adds New Capability

St. Luke's officials and guests recently dedicated the hospital's new permanent CT Scanner. Last month, construction of the 600 square foot addition was completed and the new equipment became operational shortly thereafter.

"The addition of this new technology at St. Luke's Hospital will have a tremendous impact on our ability to care for patients in this community," said Dr. Rick Gentry, radiologist.

The availability of CT scanning at St. Luke's will enable physicians to assess, diagnose, and determine the best course of treatment for patients with strokes, acute head trauma and other injuries and illnesses. "In the past," exclaimed Gentry, "many of these patients have been transferred to another

Tryon Proposes Lake Lanier Zoning

Tryon officials have proposed a zoning ordinance for Lake Lanier which would restrict the size of lakefront buildings.

The proposed ordinance is now in the hands of Greenville County officials, and Tryon Town Manager Barry G. Richards said he expects it will take them 15 to 20 days to review it.

Until an agreement is reached between the two jurisdictions, a moratorium is in effect on all lakefront building, unless a valid building permit was issued before the moratorium began March 13.

The Town of Tryon owns the Lake Lanier lake bed, although it is located in Greenville County, S.C.

Tryon officials have for some time been concerned about their ability to protect the quality of the town's drinking water, especially when it comes to the illegal use of portable toilets in oversized boathouses.

Many boathouses have become, in effect, dwellings and weekend party rooms, Richards said.

The ordinance proposed by the town would restrict the size of any new structures built on the lakefront, and should curb future problems, Richards said.

Before a lot owner could build in the future, he would need a "lake access zoning permit" from Tryon, Richards said. Under the proposed ordinance
