Polk County Schools Supt. Dr. James Causby was meeting with his finance officers Thursday and Friday to determine what the county might do to cut nearly $72,000 from its school budget between now and July.

State officials this week instructed the state's 134 school systems to cut approximately $36 per child. In Asheville, that cut would amount of $600,000.

Causby was out of town Friday afternoon. Assistant Superintendent Susan Leonard said on Friday that most of Polk's state instructional money is spent, but she expected the "few thousand" remaining to be frozen.

She said the only optional money left in the current year's budget is for the summer school program. If the state does require the cuts, Polk may only be able to offer summer school free of charge to those grades required by law: third, sixth and eighth.

Last year, Polk offered summer school to grades one through 12.

Leonard said it isn't certain yet that the cuts will actually be
