The weather Tuesday: high 79, low 55, hum. 65 percent.

The news summary: Former Charlotte Mayor Harvey Gantt won the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate and will oppose Sen. Jesse Helms this fall.

Mike Easley, a Brunswick County district attorney, was gracious in defeat and offered his unqualified support.

Nelson Mandela, the South African jailed for 27 years for his opposition to apartheid, will make an eight-city tour of the United States starting June 20. The closest visit to here will be Atlanta, June 27.

Andre Agassi and Jennifer Capriati, both American tennis stars, are on their way to winning the French Open men's and women's titles. Capriati has yet to meet Steffi Graf of West Germany, however. Agassi is the top remaining men's seed.

Henderson County voters will vote Aug. 28 on a combined package of $24 million in school bonds for city and county school building needs.

The comment: We said on Monday that Harvey Gantt had a better chance of beating Sen. Jesse Helms in the fall, and that Democrats who seek such an end

School Stand-Off Goes Unresolved

The school budget stand-off which has set county residents on edge in recent weeks was not resolved Wednesday morning.

By the end of an hour-and-a-half meeting with the Polk County Board of Commissioners, Polk County Schools Supt. Dr. James F. Causby had agreed to chop his local funding request by $79,920, from $1,979,920 to $1,900,000.

But the commissioners were sharply divided as to whether they could, or would, increase their proposed local allocation to the schools by the $160,000 necessary to meet that figure.

Commissioner John Edwards proposed that the county increase its proposed budget allocation by $100,000. Jeannie Martin wanted to see the entire $160,000 allocated.

"What we have agreed to here is to both go home and do some more work on it," said commissioner Ken Faulkner.

At least twice during the meeting, which was also attended by school board members Georgia Pack and Phillip Pleasants, County Manager Steven D. Wyatt suggested that the discussion just be ended.

See no move toward compromise, Wyatt said, "If there's no flexibility, we might as well call this to a close and move on to EMS (budget hearings). We have a lot of work to do."

Rachel Ramsey spoke the loudest for the position that the

Duke TIP

Eric Miller, a student at Tryon Middle School and son of Lee and Laura Miller of Tryon will be honored for his academic achievement at a statewide ceremony on June 8, 1990 at Duke University in Durham. The recognition ceremony is sponsored by the Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP) to salute the seventh-graders from North Carolina who qualified in TIP's tenth annual Talent Search. All students invited to the ceremony have earned scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Testing Assessment (ACT) comparable to college-bound high school seniors.

The students will receive certificates of distinction at the ceremony. The highest scorers will also receive scholarships and
