2nd Class Postage Paid At Tryon, North Carolina, 28782 Established January 31, 1928

THE WORLD'S SMALLEST DAILY NEWSPAPER

Founded Jan 31, 1928 by Seth M. Vining (Consolidated with the Polk County News 1955) Jeffrey A. Byrd, Editor and Publisher The Bulletin is published Daily except Sat. and Sun. 106 N. Trade St., P. O. Box 790 Tryon, N. C. 28782

The Tryon Daily Bulletin

Phone 859-9151

Printed in the THERMAL BELT of Western North Carolina

20 Pages Today

Vol. 63 - No. 112

TRYON, N. C. 28782

WEDNESDAY, JULY 11, 1990

20¢ Per Copy

The weather Monday: high 97, low 68, hum. 57 percent.

The closing arguments were to be heard at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the case of the Polk County Board of Education versus the Polk County Board of Commissioners.

Testimony had been heard in the trial so far from all of the county commissioners except John Edwards, and from County Manager Steven D. Wyatt and Supt. of Schools Dr. James S. Causby.

The trial went to jury, although both sides had requested the judge to hear the case. The judge would not explain his reason for requesting a jury until after the trial.

From a potential pool of 28 jurors, the county commissioners dismissed six women and two men, and the school board dismissed four men.

The twelve jurors impanelled heard lengthy arguments, very much the same arguments as were presented during the county budget hearings.

The Bulletin will have an account of the trial as soon as the jury reaches its verdict.

Today is recycling day in Tryon for those residents living south of

Continued On Back Page

Participate In WCU Co-Op Program

Two Tryon residents, Gerald L. McCool and Philip G. Preston, are among 122 Western Carolina University students participating in WCU's cooperative education program during the summer.

McCool, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary McCool of 312 Markham Road, is a senior accounting major who is employed this summer as an accountant at High Hampton Inn and Country Club in Cashiers.

Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lewis Preston of 111 Warrior Drive, is a senior radio and television major who is working at Camp Pinewood in Hendersonville.

WCU's cooperative education program gives students the opportunity to gain experience in a job related to their field of study while continuing to work toward a degree. Students who participate in the co-op program test their career decisions and enhance their post-college employment opportunities by alternating semesters of study and full-time work in a career-related field.

McCool, a 1987 graduate of Tryon High School, is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Preston, a 1985 graduate of Tryon High School, was chief justice for WCU's Student Government Association and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and the ski team.

Liquid soap has been around since 1865.

Gets Scholarship

Lamar Edney

Lamar Edney, a rising second year Civil Engineering Technology student at Spartanburg Technical College, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Piedmont Chapter of the Professional Construction Estimators Association of America, Inc. The scholarship was awarded to Edney during the organization's annual awards banquet in June in Greenville.

The Tryon, N.C., native plans to pursue a career in a construction-related field. He is employed with UPS and lives in Cooley Springs. — Reporter

Ramie fabric wrinkles easily, but can be ironed at the linen setting. If a fabric is a blend of fibers, follow label directions for ironing.

Lake Lanier Moratorium Lifted

Property owners on Lake Lanier will be allowed to build two-story boathouses as high as 25 feet above the water level, the Tryon Town Board of Commissioners decided Monday night.

The commissioners last winter reached an agreement with Greenville County authorities that enables the town to regulate construction over the water, since the town owns the lake and uses the water as its drinking source.

Town officials had become concerned that development on the lake was threatening the water quality, especially the development of boathouses which had become makeshift party houses — without sanitary facilities for the party goers.

The proposed "structure and use" ordinance considered by the board Monday would have limited the height of any new boathouses to 15 feet, and one story.

The idea, Mayor Bob Neely explained, was that the town did not feel that allowing boathouses to accomodate "party rooms" was in its best interest in protecting water quality.

But several lake area residents said the number of stories on a boathouse has nothing to do with protecting water quality. They cited the need for lake property owners to have a place for family members to get in out of the sun.

Continued On Back Page