The weather Tuesday: high 87, low 64, hum. 73 percent. As of 7 a.m. Wed., .06 inches of rain had fallen.

Volunteers are being sought to spend a few hours cleaning up the inlets and shorelines of Lake Adger.

If you've ever had the pleasure of fishing the lake — one of Western North Carolina's best kept secrets — you've probably been struck by the contrast between the beautiful scenery of this mountain lake and the ugliness of the litter along its shore.

Bays are nearly filled up with styrofoam, old drums, and careless visitors' trash. Shoreline campgrounds bear the remains of parties — beer cans, bottles and trash.

Thankfully, there are hundreds of people who just want to clean all this up and put it right again.

In cooperation with The Big Sweep '90, a clean-up has been organized for Saturday, Sept. 22. If you'd like to join in the fun and volunteer to restore Lake Adger's beauty, meet at the Red Barn Boat Launch at 10 a.m. to receive instructions and trash bags. Boat launching will be free.

Tickets are on sale for the
