Causby Candidate For Buncombe Job

Polk County Schools Supt. Dr. James F. Causby is among the final five candidates for the Buncombe County Schools top job.

However, Causby said he is not sure whether or not he will take the job, even if it is offered.

"I was asked to apply," he said. "Professionally, career-wise, for my family and financial obligations, it is something I have to look at. At this point, it is just professional curiosity."

Causby was the N.C. Superintendent of the Year this year, and there has been much speculation that the honor would be followed with job offers.

Causby said Buncombe officials expect to make their decision by the end of this month.

"My family loves it here. It is a great place to raise kids. The board has been very kind to me," Causby said. "I am very happy. I am not looking to leave."

Causby said he would hate to leave those projects underway now in Polk County, though he said he believes most are at a point where they could be carried on.

'Every Bird That Soars The Sky!'

Two lovely ladies prepare to sing a tender, yearning love song of the birds who fly, seeking a nest and their hearts seeking each another heart for sharing. Marcia Hammer and Inky Cloud (shown above) interpret one of the Lovesong Waltzes by Johannes Brahms when the Spring Concert 1991 is presented on May 17, 18 and 19 at the Tryon Fine Arts Center. Hammer is a newcomer to the Spring Concert, although she began her Tryon Community Chorus career in last December's Christmas program. She comes from the Midwest, was a music major in college and sings in the choir at Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Inky Cloud needs no introduction. A versatile performer with an enchanting voice and a gift for comedy, Inky (Mrs. Russell Cloud) studied voice before and during her college years at U.N.C., Greensboro. She has been a soloist, organist, choral director, music teacher and has graced the chorus since its inception in 1973. Remember, May 17, 18, and 19 at the Fine Arts Center. The box office opens from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.
