Joseph F. Hughes of Morgan Chapel Village in Columbus wrote to us recently after reading the Associated Press story about The Bulletin in the Hendersonville Times-News recently.

That story, by the way, has run in 14 cities in six states - that we know of so far. Clippings have been sent to us from New Orleans, La. to Norfolk, Va.... to Charleston, S.C., Pensacola, Fla. and Chapel Hill, N.C.

Mr. Hughes writes:

You have stamped your character on the TDB in the beginning paragraphs of the Curb Reporter, before you get to 'What's Happening.'

If you wish to diminish your urge to redesign the newspaper, you may want to consider redesigning the logo of the Curb Reporter.

Lankford Honored

The log house at Harmon Field has been named the Lankford Log House in memory of Charles W. Lankford. Mr. Lankford was instrumental in building the facility. He served as a member or as chairman of the Harmon Field Commission from 1961 to 1990. The Harmon Field Commission has placed a plaque at the front door of the house with the following inscription: "Lankford Log House - in memory of Charles W. Lankford for his many years of service as chairman and member of the Harmon Field Commission - 1961-1990"

In addition to serving on the Harmon Field Commission Mr. Lankford served 28 years as a member of the Tryon town council and as mayor. He did not seek re-election and retired from the council on December 14, 1981. He also retired from his contracting business at the same time.

Seth M. Vining, Jr., chairman of the Harmon Field Commission said that Mr. Lankford had given of his time and devoted 29 years to make Harmon Field an outstanding playground and recreational area. According to Mr. Vining, he and the other members of the Commission, Ray Foster and Harold Taylor, felt that naming the log house after Mr. Lankford was an opportunity to honor Mr. Lankford.
