The weather Thursday: high 91, low 69, hum. 72 percent, and by Friday at 7 a.m. 1.43 inches of rain had fallen.

The storm which pelted Polk County with heavy rains for a brief period Thursday afternoon knocked out power to the water and sewer plants, and took out the transmitter for the fire department's radio frequencies.

Betty Jones, operator in charge of the water plant, said power was off from 3:55 to 4:30 p.m. while Public Works director Clarence Henson went to throw the breaker switch and restore power.

The shut down could have caused problems, Jones said, if the operators of the water plant had not anticipated increased demand for water.

The recent heavy rains have muddied the ponds and rivers which normally supply water for Grover Industries and Carolina Yarn Processors Inc. (CYP). Both industries have been pulling town water, instead of processing their own.

To keep up with the demand, the town water plant has been processing water around the clock, going from two to three shifts.

Inman Man Pleads To Accessory Charge In Trucker's Death

Jonathon Arlo Schuler, 18, of Inman last Thursday pled guilty to being an accessory to murder in a deal cut with the 7th Circuit Solicitor's Office in Spartanburg.

In return, the solicitor dropped murder charges against Schuler, who was with convicted murderer Timothy Lee Waldrop the night Waldrop dropped a dumbbell from the Landrum Mill Road overpass into the path of an oncoming truck.

The trucker, Philip Earl Reed, was killed instantly when the weights ripped through his windshield and into his chest March 21, 1990.

Thirteenth Circuit Judge Larry Patterson sentenced Schuler to the maximum 10-year sentence, but suspended it to five years in prison and five years probation.

Two other young men charged with murder in the case, David Earl Alverson, 18, and William Roy Camp III, 17, both of Inman, were also expected to face lesser charges.
