Question: How can you travel around the world and still make it to brunch for four at the Stone Hedge Inn?

Answer: Attend the Tryon Kiwanis Club Travelogue film series. Season tickets for the film series are on sale now, and the door prize for some lucky person will be a brunch for four at the Stone Hedge Inn.

The film series features professionally produced travel films on Italy Feb. 9, the Rivers of France March 15, Hawaii April 12, and the Intracoastal Waterway May 10. All will be shown at the Tryon Fine Arts Center.

The Kiwanis Club members will be selling tickets in front of Food Lion Saturday. For $15 you can see the world, and maybe have breakfast as well. Now there's a deal.

Tryon Education Trust Moved to State Account

Nations Bank has voluntarily released custody of the Tryon Township Educational Charitable Trust which will be moved to a state treasurer's account with a better interest, the Polk County Board of Education approved Monday.

The trust was established at NCNB (now Nations Bank) for the Tryon High School library, Supt. James Causby said.

However, the fees at NCNB were taking up half of the income from the trust, Dr. Causby pointed out.

The trust specifies that it benefit students who reside in the Tryon Township, he explained. Present plans are to use the trust for the media center at the new Polk County High School, where Tryon Township high school students will attend, he said.

Phillip Pleasants suggested that the funds go to Tryon Elementary or Middle Schools since the intent of the trust at the time was for Tryon High School. Dr. Causby pointed out that once attendance lines are moved, other than Tryon Township students will be attending Tryon Elementary and Middle Schools.

The board members agreed to sign the trust release from Nations Bank and decide later the intent of the Tryon Township Educational Charitable Trust.

Peer Helping At Sunny View

At Sunny View Elementary School, 22 sixth graders and 5 fifth graders help 27 first graders with reading for a half-hour each morning. Above, David Yoak, in the fifth grade, listens as first grader Dustin West reads aloud a book he has selected from the school library. According to teachers, the peer helping program, which has been in effect since September, reinforces classroom learning and benefits both tutor and tutee. A few of the tutors stay with their "little brother" or "little sister" for the year. Others are rotated every two months.
