The weather Thursday: high 51, low 36, hum. 55 percent, and a trace of precipitation was recorded.

As the New Hampshire primary nears, we are reminded of the many tests of a proper candidate given to us in recent years.

Dan Quayle and Bill Clinton have given us the "Did you handle yourself correctly during the Vietnam draft?" test. Gary Hart and Bill Clinton have given us the "How is your love life?" test. George Bush is being asked to take the "Do you understand the common man?" test.

Ah, but what sort of tests will we devise for our own Polk County candidates? I would propose one: The "Have you been harassed on the phone lately by rude, anonymous persons?" test. Most people of any stature in Polk County apparently have had this experience.

We were talking with one lovely young lady just the other day, whose name was mentioned as a potential candidate. Bingo! She got the rude phone calls - mean people saying ugly things because she had the

Last G.C. Annual Offered To Public

The Green Creek Elementary School will be publishing its last annual this year. This annual will commemorate the history of the 78 year old school and all the students who have passed through its portals by including photographs dating back to the school's early days.

Annuals will be available to all students at the school as usual, but because of the sentimental significance of this last issue, additional copies are being offered for sale to the public at $6 a copy. These must be pre-ordered by Feb. 28th through Susan Smith, School Librarian, Green Creek Elementary School, Tryon, N.C. 28782.

Feagan, Gosnell Seek Board Seats

Charlie Feagan and Ross Gosnell have filed their candidacies for the Polk County Board of Commissioners, elections supervisor Dale Edwards announced Friday.

Feagan, of Columbus, is a large landholder in Polk County and has long been a leader in the Polk County Democratic Party.

Gosnell, a Republican from Tryon, works in promotions for Michelin in Spartanburg.

Also filing for office this week was Kim Wilson, who filed for Register of Deeds.

The only other candidate to file since the period opened Feb. 10 was Grover Whitmire, a Republican from Sunny View who also is seeking a seat on the board of commissioners.

The filing period ends March 2.
