The weather Monday: high 67, low 52, hum. 60 percent; and by 7 a.m. Tuesday .25 inches of rain had fallen.

We came across an interesting list of conservation measures for children while reading through the Riverbanks Zoo (Columbia, S.C.) magazine recently:

"Here are a few earth-saving tips for young environmentalists. Share them with your family and friends and encourage them to be thoughtful about the way we treat our home planet.

- * Recycle everything you can.
- * Discourage the use of pesticides to keep our water clean.

- * Plant a tree to reduce the greenhouse effect.

- * Snip six-pack rings so animals can't get caught in them.

- * Don't throw away the toys you're tired of. Pass them on to friends or children who may need them more than you do.

- * Conserve electricity to reduce power plant emissions which cause acid rain.

- * Don't use styrofoam. Ask for recyclable packaging, plates and cups.

- * Keep learning about how to help the earth and spread the

Landrum OK's Single-Member District Plan

Three-to-two, three-to-two aptly describes Landrum Town Council's special meeting called Monday to give first reading approval to a single-member district ordinance for Landrum voters.

The proposal would establish districts for each council seat. Council members are elected at large now by voters from across the city.

The first three-to-two vote defeated a motion by Doug Brannon to wait for the S.C. Attorney General's office to rule on whether or not Landrum can establish single-member districts. The referendum approved by voters Nov. 5, 1991 called for the election of two additional council members at large.

The second three-to-two vote gave approval to an ordinance proposed by town attorney Roger Couch which combines a plan for electing two additional council members with a plan to establish single-member voting districts in Landrum. The ordinance cannot become law until after the council holds a second reading.

The spectators in the standing-room only council room laughed when Hollis Constance, Mayor Robert Cogdell and Ray Mayfield voted down the motion to table, which was seconded by Fred Williams.

"Is it your opinion that the three of you can tell nearly 300

Fire Destroys Red Fox Home

The Red Fox Road home of Robert and Marlea Capozzi was destroyed by fire Monday night.

Columbus Fire Chief Geoffrey Tennant said the house is still standing, but one wing and the main section are gutted. The other wing has extensive water and smoke damage and an interior wall was torn out by firemen attempting to prevent the fire from spreading.

"The house was totally destroyed in terms of there being any value left," Tennant said.

No one was home when the fire started. It was discovered by a special deputy sheriff who was passing by and called it in on his car radio.

The Columbus Fire Department received the call at 11:47 p.m. Firemen from Columbus, Green Creek and Mill Spring responded to the scene, while Tryon and Sunny View firemen were on stand-by.

Tennant said firemen worked all night fighting the fire. He left the scene around 5:30 a.m.

"It appears to have been an electrical fire which started in the kitchen/laundry area," Tennant said.

None of the firemen was injured. The Capozzis are owners of Side Street Pizza in Tryon.

Super Saturday Order Blanks Available Friday

The Children's Theater Festival order blanks for the March 21, 1992 Super Saturday performance tickets will be in the schools and on the streets Friday, Feb. 28.

Remember that all students in area schools must turn in their order forms, along with $1 per ticket, to their school the first day of ticket sales, Monday, March 2. Only community persons with no children in the area schools listed below will be allowed to purchase tickets from the CTF Committee the first day, and no telephone orders will be taken the first day.

The families of students in these schools will have representatives to purchase their tickets for them on Monday: Green Creek, Mill Spring, O.P. Earle, Saluda, Spartanburg Day, Sunny View, Tryon Elementary-Middle, Tryon Day School, Tuesday School.

Community persons with no children in these schools may bring order forms to the Tryon Youth Center beginning at 9:30 a.m. Monday. Be prepared to wait, as community persons will take a number and be included in the circle, as the schools are, one at a time.

This round-robin filling of order blanks ensures fair ticket distribution to area children without excluding out-of-town
