The weather Wednesday: high 62, low 47, hum. 60 percent.

The first resident will move into Tryon Estates March 17. The long-awaited date has finally arrived, Tryon Estates executive director Joyce Keeler said Thursday.

Starting March 23, the moving vans will begin arriving in earnest - two or three a day, she said.

An open house will be held March 10 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for anyone interested in viewing a furnished, model apartment.

But a grand opening ceremony will not be held until the main activity building is completed later this spring.

What's happening:

Tickets are on sale today at Mill Spring Accelerated School from 3 to 6 p.m. for this weekend's dance production of Robin Hood. The show will be performed Saturday at the school at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m.

The popular show 3:16 The Bible Illustrated will end tomorrow at The Upstairs Gallery. The gallery is open from noon to 4. There is no admis-

Smith Takes Early Retirement

NationsBank announces that Horace A. Smith, Vice President and head of the Commercial Loans in the Tryon office has decided to take early retirement. He has been a very valuable member of the Tryon banking community since he joined Tryon Bank and Trust Company in January, 1955. Since that time his responsibilities have increased to this present level. In addition to Tryon Bank and Trust, he has served this bank under a number of names: N.C. National Bank, NCNB National Bank of N.C., and in the final months, NationsBank.

Joseph G. Claud, city executive of NationsBank expressed his regret that Smith made the decision to retire early. Claud said that the bank made a number of efforts to encourage Smith to reconsider his decision, but he said that after 37 years, he thought the time had come for a change. Horace retires today with the bank's deep appreciation for a job well done and best wishes for a long and healthy retirement.

While with NationsBank and its predecessors, Smith served the community in a number of volunteer positions. He was Treasurer of the Tryon Fine Arts Center, Treasurer and vice chairman of Polk County Community Foundation, President of the Tryon Chamber of Commerce, founding board member

No Injuries, This Time; New Market Worries Planners

Another driver went over the embankment on the winding curves of New Market Road this week.

Tryon Police Officer Gail Nonamaker responded to a call Wednesday night after the driver of a small Chevrolet pick up truck apparently lost control on the same curve where Charles Patrick McKee of Columbus crashed last summer, on July 18, 1991.

McKee, 27, was killed when his car hit a pine tree. A passenger, Tony Constance, survived.

Nonamaker had not yet filed her report on Wednesday's accident and was not back on

Super Saturday 92's Slate Of Theatrical Companies Outlined

Eight children's theatrical companies will perform at Super Saturday March 21.

Each is well worth seeing, but how do parents choose which shows are best for their children? Perhaps the following synopsis of each performance will help families decide which shows are right for them.

The shows this year are:

* CHILD'S PLAY acts out short stories adapted from stories and poems written by children. These tales presented by Child's Play Touring Theatre of Chicago, Ill., include rap, monsters, and common situations for pre-schoolers to 6th graders. Each show lasts 45 minutes.

* DON'T COUNT YOUR CHICKENS UNTIL THEY CRY WOLF is a musical review that turns Aesop's Fables upside down and brings them into the present. Toe-tapping tunes teach age-old morals as kindergartners on up join the action and sing along with the Tortoise from the storyline of "The Tortoise and the Hare".

This 50-minute show is presented by the Tarradiddle Players from Charlotte, who brought the wonderful Charlotte's Web to Super Saturday last year.

* THE GOLDEN GOOSE is a fun show with audience participation for preschoolers and
