Unique Artwork On Display At Landrum Library

On display at the Landrum Branch Library is a collection of unique artwork by students of Sherri Hoover, art teacher at O. P. Earle Elementary School.

Mrs. Bosc's fourth grade class combined their language art, writing and their handmade paper art process to create handmade books which will be sent, as gifts, to their pen pals in North Dakota at the close of the school year.

The third grade Mosaic, artistically gifted and talented, class created 'Winter Bouquets' by combining the handmade paper process with the dried treasures of winter.

Students are Kacey Ayers, Adam Bennett, David Caldwell, Jessica Foy, Steven Gilmore, Sam Harris, Nicholas Hatchette, Sarah Hyder, Kimberly Howard, Steven Loneworth, Megan Loftis, Laura Williams.

New School Attendance Lines Drawn

Overcrowding at Tryon Elementary (K-8) and projected overcrowding at the new Polk Central School (K-8) when it opens next fall prompted the Polk County Board of Education to convert Tryon High School to a middle school for next year and redraw school attendance lines. The eastern boundary of the Tryon school district was pushed further east from Columbus toward Mill Spring and Green Creek, much the same area as was redistricted when Stearns School was closed the summer of 1988. The redistricted area (outlined above) includes all or portions of Houston, Hwy. 108, Fox Mountain, Smith Dairy, Red Fox, Peniel, Little Mountain, Hwy. 14, Golf Course, and Phillips roads. Applications for transfers were due by Friday, although it was unclear whether any would be approved. The school board planned to discuss school attendance lines at its meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. at Stearns Education Center.

Train Will Make Trip Over Grade

Citizens will have a chance to ride the steepest main line railroad grade in the country Sat., Mar. 21, when a passenger train makes a trip from Spartanburg, to Asheville.

The four-car train will climb Saluda's famed 4.8 percent grade during the six-hour trip.

The train will leave the

Amtrak/Norfolk Southern station in Spartanburg at 10 a.m., stop for photo opportunities and lunch, and arrive in Asheville at 4 p.m. Cost is $195.

To order tickets, send check payable to Rail Services, 1422 Delane Ave., Suite 2, Charlotte, N.C. 28211. For more information call 1-704-364-6471.
