

Spring Training For Hospice

A few mornings spent this spring enrolled in a class will give interested men and women an overview of the Hospice program and may be the beginning of a rewarding experience.

A six-session course starting Tuesday, March 31, will allow participants to listen to several volunteers who are currently making visits to the homes of persons who know they cannot anticipate recovery but appreciate deeds that bring a measure of enrichment to their days.

The better a volunteer understands the whole Hospice program, the easier he or she can grasp the volunteer's part in the picture. The volunteer's role is regarded as the heart of the program.

There will be lectures or workshops or films or group discussions on such subjects as listening and communicating; physical, emotional and spiritual needs of terminally ill persons and their families; the interdisciplinary team concept; the importance of confidentiality; grief and bereavement.

This training course for Hospice volunteers will run on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. until noon, beginning March 31 and ending April 16.

It will be held in the classroom at St. Luke's Hospital. To register call 859-2270. There is no charge. Both men and women are needed.
