

Communication

Dear Jeff:

In response to Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham's article in the March 20 issue of The Bulletin, I would like to list the companies who have said NO to irradiating their food. These will be safe to eat:

Large Food Companies: General Foods, Kraft, Dole, Gerber Baby Foods, Philip Morris, Archer-Daniels Midland, H.J. Heinz, Ralston Purina, Quaker Oats, Borden Foods, Castle & Cooke, Campbell Soup Co., Pepsi Co., Coca Cola & Co., and Kellogg's.

Poultry Companies: Perdue, Tyson Foods, ConAgra, Gold Kist, Pilgrim's Pride, Wayne Poultry Div., Hudson Foods, Foster Farms, Townsends, Seaboard Farms of Athens, Marshall Durbin, Showell Farms.

Supermarkets: A & P Supermarkets, Marks & Spencer, Albertson's.

Fast Food Restaurants: McDonald's, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Pizza Hut.

Food Industry Trade Associations: West Mexico Vegetable Distributors Assn., United Fishermen of Alaska.

Laws in the states of New York, New Jersey, and Maine prohibit the sale and distribution of radiation exposed foods. More than 36 million consumers are protected by these laws.

For more information on how your company can be included in the Consumer's Guide to Safe Food, call 1-800-EAT-SAFE.
