

Saluda Gallery Holds Reception

Heartwood Contemporary Crafts Gallery owners Shelley DeKay and Barbara Seiler held an open reception for sculptresses Catharine Brown and Margaret Rogers in their gallery located on Main Street in Saluda on Saturday, April 11.

Approximately 100 people braved the thunder and rain to view the porcelain figures by Catharine and Margaret for the two-woman show which runs April 11 through June 30.

Catharine Brown, who lives in Asheville, is also a gardener and creates works in porcelain to inhabit the garden. "By placing my angels and goddesses alongside plants, rocks, water and soil I share a sense of connection with all creation."

Rogers has a studio in Virginia and creates her porcelain gargoyles, dragons and gnomes "just for fun." As one inspected the pieces one becomes aware of the attention that is given to the detail of facial expression, moss and rotted tree bark.

Gallery owners DeKay and Seiler noted that the show timing is appropriate for the spring season. Many visitors also had the opportunity to examine the on-premise made hammocks and chairs, wearable art and jewelry.

The evening show was complemented by classical guitarist Michael Miller who played during the reception.
